

Great Expectations

Wedding Day Musts for Expecting Brides

A Flattering Frock

If you always dreamed of walking down the aisle in a fitted sheath perhaps it's time to rethink your options. Sure, you can wear any dress you like but just because you like a dress doesn't mean it will flatter your bump. Trust us – it's better to flatter your pregnant frame than to look like you are trying to pretend you aren't 8 months along.

Comfortable Shoes

You'll be on your feet for much longer than it takes to walk down the aisle.

You'll need to make it through the reception, the first dance and mingling with your guests. This gives your feet plenty of time to swell up.

Opt for comfortable flats – remember comfortable doesn't have to mean ugly.

If you are having trouble finding cute flats retail try Etsy instead.

Temporary Wedding Ring

Your hands are likely not their average size right now due to water retention and it can be a real pain to size a ring up. Often times the stones come back displaced and the gold weakens making your ring more likely to break. Instead, order a temporary wedding ring (hint: it doesn't have to be up scale to look it) and then switch out to your permanent set after the baby.

PHOTO CREDITS

Kelly Dillon Photography

Kelly Hornberger Photography

Create Your FREE Wedding App Today at

www.mineforeverapp.com

For More Information on - Great Expectations: Wedding Day Musts for Expecting Brides

Please visit ↓

www.mineforeverapp.com/blog/2014/03/20/great-expectations-wedding-day-musts-for-expecting-brides/