

Course Title: 18 19 century Novel

Level: BS 5th

Course Description

This course aims to introduce the students to the origin and development of relatively late-emerging genre of novel. It has been designed with a view to developing their understanding how novel is different from other genres of literature, poetry and drama. The students are given an in-depth understanding of the making and mechanics of a novel, the role of narrator, narrative styles and techniques, and the art of characterization. The teacher is also expected to explain how a full-length fictional prose narrative is different from flash fiction, short story and novella. Discussing the emergence of novel since eighteenth century, this course brings out the significance of this genre as discussed, for example, in great detail in Ian Watt's seminal book, Rise of the Novel (1955). While teaching novel, teachers are supposed to consult and have a sound understanding of some of the ground breaking books as Rise of the Novel (1955) by Ian Watt, Aspects of the Novel (1927) by E M Forster, and The English Novel (1953) by Walter Allen. With a deeper understanding of the elements of fiction, the teachers will be able to impart a holistic definition of this genre starting from the basic "long fictional prose narrative" to a relatively complex definition of novel as can be extracted from, say, Ian Watt's book. An understanding of ingredient elements that constitute a novel will enable the students to develop an all-round understanding of this genre and equip them to grasp the complexities of modern fiction course in the coming semesters.
